Maëla, our French assistant instructing the grade twos and playing a French tradition "La Galette des Rois" this is played in early January. The family sits around the table with the Galette - a cake made with almond paste - in the centre. Inside the Galette is a small prize. The smallest member of the family hides under the table and calls the name of each person to take their slice of the cake. When all the cake has been shared the family members eat it to find the small prize. The person who wins the prize with their slice wears a crown and is king or queen for the day.
